Urumarché
 Information

With the concept of “Energizing Uruma City through food,” this farmers market connects buyers of Okinawan food with farmers, fishermen, food processors, and shop owners. You can buy fresh produce at a low price because the products do not go through a wholesale market. They also have a bakery, delicatessen, boxed lunches, and baked goods using Uruma’s special products, which are popular both with local people and visitors.

Urumarché food court and restaurants are also must-go places!

Uruma Shimin Shokudo

You can have set menus that go well with rice, such as local Okinawan fish sautéed in butter, stewed pig feet, agu pork cooked in ginger sauce, and pork cutlets. Filling dishes using fresh food from Urumarché are popular among people of all ages.
